SkillsCenter Resource Library ★ Practice Quizzes
Tutors aid non-native learners of English develop their English language skills in reading and writing. Through the use of various tutoring techniques and exercises relating to the meaning and usage of different parts of speech, tutors can enable students to gain a better understanding of how the English language functions so that students can apply their knowledge in academic settings and in everyday life in English-speaking environments in order to increase their communicative competence. Tutors help students in vocabulary acquisition, reading comprehension, and language production in the form of writing, while employing knowledge of linguistics and error correction to lead students toward increased English fluency.

Summary Feedback Form

Please provide an evaluation of this document. Be sure to include:

- A detailed description of its strengths and weaknesses. Which components did you focus on? Which components meet the goals of the document, and which require further work?
- Detailed advice on what the student needs to work on to meet the goals of the assignment.

If appropriate, please also include links to educationally-sound online resources dealing with areas of writing where the student showed particular difficulty.

I think you've definitely off to a good start with this intro paragraph. Starting off with a quote is a good attention getter, and then you do a good job of giving background in the following sentences. You bring up the main points that are to come later in the essay, but I'd like to see those combined into a thesis statement to end the paragraph. With that, you will have a great intro and be ready to continue!

What are your recommended next steps for the student in order to get the document ready for final submission? If your review focused on certain issues rather than others (for example, if you focused on the development of ideas and mentioned significant but not all grammar issues), what areas should the student focus on in subsequent drafts?

I think you know just what you need to do to continue—follow the main points you've laid out to form the body paragraphs of the essay, and close with a conclusion paragraph. Good luck!

Type your question here. Include all directions and a note to the tutor if there is a certain way you want it solved. For example, "Use graphing" or "use factoring".

Find the equation of the line that passes through the points (-5, -1) and (-1, 0). Slope-intercept form.

Step 6:

Now we need to graph the line $y = \frac{3}{2}x + 1 + \frac{3}{2}$. There are three different ways to graph an equation of line. (i) By creating a table of values, (ii) Using x-intercept and y-intercept, (iii) By using slope and y-intercept. Let us choose the first method to get five points to plot and then graph them. We can pick any $y$ value preferable two negatives values, 0 and two positive values, so that we can graph on either side of the coordinate plane.

Step 7:

We need to use the five points that we got in the previous step to plot in the coordinate graph. A point is given by $(x, y)$ the first coordinate is where the point lies on the $x$ axis and the second coordinate is where the point lies on the $y$ axis. Up and to the right are the positive directions and down and to the left are negative directions for both axes. To plot $(2, \frac{3}{2})$, from the origin we need to move LEFT 2 units and UP 3.5 units and plot the points. To plot $(-1, 0)$, from the origin $(0, 0)$ we need to move LEFT 1 unit and UP 0 units. To plot $(0, 0)$ we need to move RIGHT 1 unit and UP 0 unit. To plot a point at $(2, 9.5)$, we need to move RIGHT 2 units and UP 9.5 units. We need to join all the points to get the graph of the line $y = \frac{3}{2}x + 1 + \frac{3}{2}$. Hope this helps.
